MEETS A SET-BACKGreeks Must Sign Armistice Ere Turkey Will Confer...Adjourned Till Thursday.Delegates Have Full Powers to Negotiate, Conclude and Sign Peace Agreement.

(By Times Special Cable)

London, Dec. 17.—An obstinate was encountered early to-day by the plenipotentiaries of the Ottoman empire, who are gathered here with the object of bringing about peace. The absence of Greece's signature to the armistice protocol was the cause of the hitch in the proceedings, and the delegates found it necessary to adjourn without effecting any real business.

They will not meet again until 10 a.m. on Thursday afternoon, and the decisions reached by the members of the Balkan League would be binding on Greece if communicated with the other members of the federation.

Hydro Manager to Be Offered Salary of $2,400.

Spoken to and urged to run for mayoralty by many prominent Ald. Thomas S. Morris has decided to remain in the controller fight he commenced this morning that he could not be at the polls to-morrow.

The reason is equally good now that the race will be between Controllers Bailey and Allan, and from the opinions of those around the City Hall will start off with equal chances.

A feeling is that a third man would be a good opportunity now of slipping in for Mayor, and among the names mentioned of those who would win the race are Ald. Morris and Allan. Both are strong supporters of the day.

A LITTLE ROMANCE

Widow of Charlie Mitchell Marries Again.

A special despatch from Milwaukee makes the following announcement:

George E. Kirkpatrick, postmaster at his forthcoming wedding to Mrs. Mitchell, of this city, by securing a marriage license of the County Clerk. The bride is the widow of former exchange editor of The Milwaukee Journal, George Mitchell, formerly of Hamilton, Ont., who committed suicide after a long run of extra work had left him ill and dead.

The group-to-be was a schoolmate of Mitchell's in Milwaukee, and the notice of his death in Milwaukee was the stimulus for a letter of sympathy, which resulted in correspondence and the eventual announcement of the coming wedding.

Mrs. Mitchell was born June 10, 1886, in Brandon, Man., and was married to C. A. Mitchell, was city editor of the Spectator and Herald for years, going to Milwaukee about three years ago.

Controller Bailey Had Some Pointed Remarks To Make at the Board of Control This Morning.

The Board of Control this morning held one of the shortest and "swettest" sessions of the year. In the absence of the Mayor, the Board was adjourned as early as possible, and as such as he laughingly remarked, "I get in for a cent or two for the coming year."

A letter was received from W. D. Flatt, informing the board that the Lawrence premium on the fire truck would be increased from $300 to $350. It was decided to offer the company the old premium of $300, and if this should not prove satisfactory to place the risk elsewhere.

The appeal of the Hamilton Matherley Company was rejected. It will be remembered that this company incurred a penalty of $300 for not completing its contract for a new stone sitter with the specified time. A bill amounting to $1,000 was forwarded to the city.

At a former meeting the board decided to cut the penalty in half, reducing it to $100. It was decided this morning to stand by this arrangement, but to inform the company that they will not be treated in the same manner.

Controller Allan referred to the matter of Mr. Barley's resignation. He said that he was in favor of retaining Mr. Barley. The board decided to postpone the matter until after the election.

Controller Bailey laughingly suggested that the lights be left on until after election night, but Controller Allan said that it was not necessary to remain at the office.

Controller Bailey wanted to know what had changed. Controller Allan's mind so much in the last week, as at a former meeting, when Mr. Barley's resignation was accepted.

Allan had been very much against any further increase in that official's salary.

Now Controller Allan comes out and advocates it.

Controller Allan was asked if he had been present before, and he said that he was not.

Controller Allan made a suggestion that the long strings of lights on the platform be taken down before the festival.

This was received with favor, and until to-morrow, when a lighting committee will be held, the lights will be left on until after election night.

PLOTS THAT FAILED

"You think that while your grief is fresh upon you," declared the old girl; "but after a while you will be surprised to see how quickly you get over it, and you stretch out in a great way, without bursting, believe me; other girls have loved and lost before, and they have, I daresay, got over it. You must have the pox."

"Am I glad that I should catch it! The world is such a bunch bitter fruit!"

"I will tear it from my bosom."

"Through my heart at the root!"

But no words of comfort, no piping lines from the poets—who had, never known a sorrow such as hers, could—assuage the poor little child's pain. The girl, however, was too fond of her eyes seemed to have run dry—weep until she was on the border of hysteria, and fall upon her bosom, too exhausted to utter another sound, weep another tear.

When the doctor and her father arrived, the girl was so far gone, was amazed beyond words to find that her little patient, whom he left but a short time before on the high road to rapid recovery, was still upon the bed, and how it could possibly have come about he could not determine.

John, rejoined with ignorance concerning the secret, declaring that his Cousin Bab could not have suffered from any shock, other than vivid, bad dreams, which she constantly complained of.

The doctor vouchsafed no reply, but in his own mind he was not satisfied with the explanation, and he finally fled him more than he cared to own.

CHAPTER XXXV.

That evening, when Rupert Downing called at the Haven mansion to inquire after little Bab, had betrothed, as was his custom, John, and the two young men, with him, unobserved by the other members of the household, under the pretence of examining a portfolio of new engravings, which had been sent that day to Bab.

"Well, I'm here," he artfully said, "and the room is yours, so you may be assured smile on your face that you gave me the letter. What came of it?"

"You know what the doctor said about the relapse. I have had but one question first: is this what came of it? I must compliment you on your marvelous skill in this direction," said little Clarence Neville's peculiar hand-writing.

"Bab was completely deceived by it, and believed that it was anything else than genuine. But when I convinced even me, had I not been expecting it, knowing you were to send it when you were upon the road to recovery, that she sufficiently preferred to deceive her, who knew his writing so well from the numerous notes he had sent her."

Rupert Downing looked impatiently at her. "Never mind compliments, now," he said grimly, "but tell me all that you took place."

John India proceeded to do, giving him a graphic account in a very few words of just what had occurred.

John India, intensely, breaking out with a deep impatience, as he held his breath now, and then, muttering, after a moment's pause:

"I have no heart to tell her if she is as much in love with Clarence as she is, that unless she does it before me."

"That is the only way in which it could be accomplished," agreed India, after a long silence.

"We have done a most remarkable service, and I am sure, in giving a perfectly legal divorce through Clarence. Corlinda played her part so resolutely, and well that even when the eyes of long and patient observers, as sharp, were completely deceived. Let me picture the scene to you as she left the Haven mansion, and as she reached the actress' reached New York. It did not take her long to get into Rita's train, and this, too, with her, and make her way to the hotel to which Clarence Neville had been taken.

"For several days she was not allowed to see him, but he was allowed to see her, to whom he was still clinging so constantly.

"At last she was permitted to see him. It was a critical moment when she

THE TWO NAVAL POLICIES.

As far as well with the ship of State at Ottawa. Some of the officers are dissatisfied, many members of the crew are almost in open mutiny, and the commander finds it difficult to enforce discipline. The trouble is with the course of the ship, and the compass seems to be out of order. The ship is not to blame, but the crew is not to only half the voyage, and a fight is said to be on whether or not they will continue on to Permanent. Mr. Foster, one of the petty officers, is said to be rebellious, and has called a meeting to take a stand. The crew, who do not want to be ordered, are not to be ordered. That is, it was understood that he was to speak yesterday, to be followed by Dr. Clark, of Red Deer. But the former did not speak, but the doctor did, and his speech, which is reported elsewhere, was a smashing attack on the British emergency contribution. The doctor is British-born, but now a Western farmer. He has a glib tongue and tongue with a sharp edge, and his speech was amazing. It exposed all the weaknesses of the British programme in a merciless manner. He showed that the German scare was like the French scare and the Russian scare of former days, and was shot down by quick thinking. Mr. Winter, of Waterloo, speeched that there was no emergency; that Britain was well able to take care of herself. He showed also that Britain's policy of contribution tied Canada down to a policy of that kind; that the contribution would have to be followed by others, just as long as Canada had no way of getting out. The MacDonalds, he said, should be blamed. Macdonald had gone to the British Government with a cut-and-dried policy of an emergency contribution, and that Government gave him what he asked for, not what it wanted. This is borne out by the previous utterances of Mr. Churchill. He is to the need of the hour, and the other day he needed we find in the columns of the London Times, although it has been foremost in singing the praises of Mr. Bonar for proposing the contribution of $35,000,000 to the British fleet.

In an editorial of November 29th, a few days before Mr. Churchill made the announcement of his naval estimate, the Times said:

The last ten years have witnessed an immense increase of efficiency throughout the British fleet. It has never reached a higher pitch of training and readiness for war than it has now. And Britain is in its ships, the nation believes in them, too. We are ready in our own eyes to meet the emergency of the moment, and we are ready, too, to meet any emergency that may take, and we know that as a people we do not stand alone. The action of the Dominion navies, and of South Africa, was a sign to all the world that in any great emergency, the self-governing dominions are the self-governing dominions. Every great dominion has undertaken, or is now to undertake, the creation of a fleet, centre of naval power, and the naval armament of the dominions is strength. Their growth and strength is our strength, as ours has always been theirs. As a material factor that movement abroad, now, is a moral factor, and is inestimable.

The need of joint security is plain enough to all, but the principals are still in the dark as to what Britain's task for the present to maintain the naval strength required by imperial interests, and the like, and Britain's task is fully equal to all. But her imperial interest stretches beyond the boundaries of Europe; it is stretched across the world, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, across the other two great oceans of the world. Though the sea indeed is all one, it is not sound strategy to urge that a North Atlantic fleet is all that is needed, our universal criterion of naval power. Let us fix a European standard according to which a naval need within this country is able to call for 80 men, and let us then in consultation with the Dominion Governments decide the needs of a world fleet. But let us, too, let us require our help even then, but let us keep the two spheres distinct, and reckon on the help of others only in the wider extra-European sphere.

Each of these systems will mark for the highest possible efficiency in the conditions of war, but the two systems do not easily amalgamate. Mr. Churchill has already stated his belief that a naval fleet of the Empire's naval work, and we took to him to make his decision. We here find the London Times declaring that Britain never was so well able to defend her Empire as she is now. The British navy has never reached a higher pitch of training and readiness for war. No emergency here apparently. Here also is to be found a whole-souled approval of the Laurier policy. It declares also that Mr. Churchill "has already stated his belief in some division of the Empire's naval work." To this we add that the Laurier policy is the real policy of the British Admiralty. But that policy did not suit Bonar, and the Admiralty just gave him what he asked for.

A PARCELS' POST.

The other day the Times referred to the adoption of a parcels' post by the United States, following the example of Britain and Germany. It is now stated that the question of a parcel post for Canada will form the subject of discussion, if not of legislation, in the Dominion House of Commons this session. Discussing the matter, Industrial Canada makes a comparison of rates of shipping in Hamilton, which is at least interesting. It says that the following comparison of postage rates on a parcel weighing eleven pounds shows us how we stand:

From Postage, London, Eng., to Toronto, Ont., $7.73
Paris, France, to Toronto, Ont., ... 87
Berlin, Germany, to Toronto, Ont., ... 90
Hamilton, Ontario, to Toronto, Ont., ... 87
This is all, or, in order to send eight pounds by post from Hamilton to Toronto, it would be necessary to break the package up into three small packages, each weighing less than five pounds.

We see that it costs as much to send a parcel from Hamilton to Toronto than it does to send one from London, Eng., to Toronto. If a parcel post can reduce the rate all over as shown by these figures, it certainly would have a good idea that there is a responsibility in training and character forming.

OTHER PAPERS' VIEWS

SIR RICHARD'S DILEMMA.

(London, Advertiser.)
There will be some curiosity as to the course Sir Richard will take on the Lower naval programme.

There is no expectation that Sir Richard will endorse it, but his attitude will be interesting as an example in writing.

PARENTAL RESPONSIBILITY.

(Preston, Lancashire.)
Out of merely material considerations, many parents seem to think their responsibility ends in bringing children into the world, and that they have no idea that there is a responsibility in training and character forming.

A CHANCE FOR WHITNEY.

(Brantford Expositor.)
To retain the population on the farms of Ontario would accomplish more good than an effort to abolish training, the enforcement of which would result in a general waste of life if it could be enforced at all.

The Times Christmas number will be published next Saturday. Send in your advertisements for it, and order your copies now.

Five thousand children were killed by automobile in the streets of New York last month, while they were at play, and nobody was hanged or electrocuted.

Some of the would-be aldermen are very, fear, more anxious to raise the pay of the corporation employees than they are to raise the wages of their own employees.

New York has a Christmas tree stand of fir trees for inspecting decorations in stores, churches, banquets, etc. The fine stand found spruce trees decorated with tinsel, twining, paper and other innumerable material, and instructed that they be made fireproof. Chief Teneyck might send out a similar squad to a similar mission.

The New York Journal of Commerce takes issue with the British Liberal on the subject of the Monroe Doctrine, and it says: "As everybody ought to know, the Monroe Doctrine was a sign to all the world that in any great emergency, the self-governing dominions are the self-governing dominions. Every great dominion has undertaken, or is now to undertake, the creation of a fleet, centre of naval power, and the like, and the naval armament of the dominions is strength. Their growth and strength is our strength, as ours has always been theirs. As a material factor that movement abroad, now, is a moral factor, and is inestimable."

Each of these systems will mark for the highest possible efficiency in the conditions of war, but the two systems do not easily amalgamate. Mr. Churchill has already stated his belief that a naval fleet of the Empire's naval work, and we took to him to make his decision.

SHOULD HONORABLE MRS. FESSEN- DEN.

(Montreal, Witness.)
Hamilton City Council has passed a resolution urging on the Canadian government to make the duty of rendering some public recognition of the great services to the empire rendered by Mrs. Fesenden in having been the first president of Empire Day, which has become a general institution in Canada in connection with the birthday of the Queen, and has not been definitely decided, but as everything is about as usual to residents, to prevent with erection, it will not be long before the Canadian government will be in a position to do so.

Officers Elected For City Teams

Six Teams In the City League--Fred Ratell Will Manage O.H.A. Intermediates.

Judging by the enthusiasm in evidence at the annual meeting of the hockey players at the Alerts' Rink last night, Hamilton will take a prominent place on the hockey map this winter. That there is plenty of fine class players in Hamilton there is no doubt; and apparently all of them are willing and anxious to get on the ice again. Last night's meeting was held in the room of club managers for the intermediates and juniors. The teams and officers for the City League. Over fifty players attended the meeting, and those of them who intended to try for the O. H. A. team signed certificates on the spot. That Hamilton will have a strong team is a certainty, but doubt, and if at least one championship does not find a resting place in this city in the early spring, the promoters will be very much surprised.

The first business taken up last night was the selection of a manager for the intermediates. O. H. A. team. Fred Ratell was the unanimous choice. Mr. Ratell has had lots of experience in managing teams, and is well qualified to handle the team. He will take immediate charge. William Grinnell was elected to manage the seniors.

The next business was the election of the City League. All the teams had representatives present at the meeting. The names of their representatives were as follows:

Tigress--A. Avery.
Bulldogs--W. Allan.
St. Patrick's--J. McDermott.
L.H.A.C.A.--P. A. Muldoon.
Wise Men--J. J. Baldwin.
Alberta--A. Weir.

The following officers were elected: President--J. T. Stewart, J. T. Frost, Paul O'Byrne, H. B. Biggar, W. J. Southam, R. H. Harris, J. M. Eastwood, T. J. Stewart, Samuel Barter. President--Dr. J. A. McLean.
Vice-President--H. P. Wright.
Secretary--L. A. Wren.
Treasurer--Dr. J. A. McLean.
Executive Committee--W. Allan, P. Muldoon, J. McDermott.

There is room for two more teams in the City League, and it will likely be an eight team league before the season opens. The teams will be formed early in January, and the class of hockey in this organization promises to be almost as fast as the intermediates. O. H. A. brand.

Work is being rushed as fast as possible on the new building, which will open on Christmas eve, when an exhibition practice of the season's first fast outside team and the Alert's second team will be in session now, but the two motors, which are being constructed by the Canadian Motor Car Co., will not be finished some time this week. It should not take long to install them, and the new pipes of piping it will mean other day.

Should another spell of cold weather set in, the playing practice on the lakes will be suspended until the rink is ready for practice.

George Kennedy has had only a mere handful of games, but he has had two practices and is now scoring the bushes for talent to uphold the name of the Canadians.

How professionals break into the amateur game is a problem, and it has not been solved in a practical way. First two practices and is now scoring the bushes for talent to uphold the name of the Canadians.

John T. Brush has had only a mere handful of games, but he has had two practices and is now scoring the bushes for talent to uphold the name of the Canadians.

Widow of John T. Brush Will Not Seek to be Feminine Baseball Magistrate.

MRS. JOHN T. BRUSH

Charles Hempstead, head of the club, and John McDermott will continue as manager.

The property bequeathed Mrs. Brush is estimated at $20,000,000 by W. H. Mulligan, of the New York Stock Exchange, owner of the St. Louis National League club and Mrs. Charles H. Knobell, of the New York American Association club.

Mrs. Brush was the second wife of the baseball magnate. She was Elsie Lombard, the Baltimore Lombard, and was a noted beauty of the day. She has appointed her son-in-law, the old Franklin Stock Company.

Billy Hamilton Made 'Em Go the Limit 15 Years Ago--Where is He Now?

Still in the Great Game, Scouting for the Majors and Managing Minor League Clubs.

Where are yesterday's baseball heroes? This story tells what has happened to one of the game's greats.

"Four balls, take your base!"

"He's off for second!"

First the umpire, then the fans. The second cry followed the first when Billy Hamilton was playing baseball. The pitcher that won the game had been driven back by the speediest of "beam balls." Only John McDermott had ever been driven back so fast. Hamilton was a night mare, a pitcher, even Kiki Ellerfield and George Brewster were afraid of him.

Billy Sunday and Bill Lange alone

had given him the record for most baseball games not won.

CONDITIONS OF STREET RAILWAY

Named in Letter to the Special Committee.

WON'T BE GRANTED

Is the Feeling Among Some of the Aldermen.

While AM Morris, chairman of the committee, is hopeful of a successful conclusion,

before the end of the year, others connected with the civic administration do not think there is much chance of the street railway question being settled before the new Council takes hold of affairs. The company put up its counter-proposition to the city yesterday afternoon at a closed meeting in the office of Mayor Lees, who had been consulted upon it, while the extension wanted in the east end of the city. In a nutshell, the railway wants the city to strike off the miles and add a few more, and the city wants to remove snow and repairing paved streets, and also give to the railway a portion of Gilmorson street. In addition to the extension, the company wants to have the radial line on Main street

extended from the Terminal station to the corner of Main and King streets.

Controller Bailey said to-day that he did not know what the company wanted everything to the railway. While he favoured allowing an extension of tracks to the city, he said the city should stand for the other concessions, such as clearing the snow, paying for repair work. The business is done in a short time, and the proposal will be a piling one from the start," he declared. Controller

Lees, in a statement to-day, said that for a number of years, the extension should be under the same conditions as the system in other parts of the country.

Following is the proposal of the railway company:

"We do have reference in this

communication to the route beginning

at James and Burlington streets, thence

westerly on the base line to Renfrew avenue, then thence easterly on to Main street, thence westerly via either Main or King streets to connect with the radial line at that same avenue. The radial line is to be extended to and joined with the tracks above mentioned at Kenilworth avenue.

"The addition to our track mileage amounts to something over 50 per cent.

Our present system will not require the clearing of snow, and will not require any legal difficulties, but it seems to us that all things considered, the logical extension of the system will be calculated to do the most good to the greatest number of patrons. This is to a large extent a matter of public opinion, and we do not believe that it will not overrule the other factors.

"We do have reference in this

communication to the route beginning

at James and Burlington streets, thence

westerly on the base line to Renfrew

avenue, then thence easterly via either

Main or King streets to connect with the radial line at that same avenue.

"That the city join in the abrogation of by-law 288, to take effect immediately after the date of the opening of the new line between James and Irondequoit.

"That the city join in the experiment of an under crossing for the

T. R. main line at Kenilworth avenue for street and railway, as the street will be closed.

"That our street shall be started immediately after Gilmorson street has been put into condition, and our standard street railway construction is to be applied, rail construction as the streets allow.

"That the tracks on unpaved

streets shall be our standard seventy-

foot gauge, and our standard

street railway tracks into the plant of

the Hamilton Steel & Iron Company,

as outlined by you, again, although the streets to be occupied in proper condition, strikes, questions arising with Hamilton Steel & Iron.

"That the city give the radical and special ownership of a certain part of unpaved street, between Sherman inlet on the south and Gilmorson on the north, and the street railway construction as the streets allow.

"That the tracks on unpaved

streets shall be our standard seventy-

foot gauge, and our standard

street railway tracks into the plant of

the Hamilton Steel & Iron Company,

periment of an under crossing for the
